2.5. Types of foreign exchange rates applied in accounting

Foreign currency transactions during the period are converted into VND at the actual exchange rate on the transaction date.

The actual exchange rate for transactions in foreign currency occurring during the period:

- The exchange rate used to record accounts receivable is the buying rate of the designated commercial bank where the company's customers settle at the time of transaction occurrence;
- The exchange rate used to record accounts payable is the selling rate of the commercial bank where the company intends to transact at the time of transaction occurrence;

The actual exchange rate when revaluing monetary items denominated in foreign currency at the reporting date of the consolidated financial statements:

- For items classified as assets, the buying rate of the commercial bank where the company regularly conducts transactions is applied.
- For foreign currency deposits, the buying rate of the bank where the company holds the foreign currency account is applied;
- For items classified as accounts payable, the selling rate of the commercial bank where the company regularly conducts transactions is applied.

All actual exchange rate differences arising during the period and differences due to revaluation of year-end balances of monetary items denominated in foreign currency are recognized in the operating results of the accounting period. In which, gain from the exchange rate differences resulting from revaluation of the year-end balance of monetary items dominated in foreign currencies is not used to distribute profits or pay dividends.

2.6. Cash and cash equivalents

Cash comprises cash on hand, bank deposits.

Cash equivalents are short-term investments of no more than 03 months that can be easily converted into cash and do not have much risk of conversion into cash from the date of purchase of that investment.

2.7. Financial investments

Trading securities: are initially recorded in the accounting books at cost, including purchase price plus purchase costs (if any) such as brokerage, transaction, information provision, taxes, fees, and banking fees After initial recognition, trading securities are measured at historical cost less allowance for decline in value of trading securities. When liquidating or selling, the cost of trading securities is determined according to the FIFO method.

Held to maturity investments: include Term deposits in the bank (including bills, promissory notes), bonds, preferred shares that the issuer is obligated to repurchase, at a certain point in the future, loans... held to maturity for the purpose of earning periodic interest, and other held-to-maturity investments.

Investments in subsidiaries, associates and other investments: Investments in subsidiaries, joint ventures, and associates purchased during the period are determined at the purchase date, the cost of the investment, and the accounting procedures carried out in accordance with the provisions of Accounting Standard "Consolidation business" and "Investment in associates".

23rd floor, Leadvisors Tower, 643 Pham Van Dong,

Nghia Do Ward, Hanoi

Investments in equity instruments of other entities: include Investments in equity instruments of another entity that do not control, jointly control, or have significant influence over the investee. The initial carrying amount of these investments are measured at cost. After initial recognition, these investments are measured at cost less allowance for investment loss.

Dividends received in shares are only recorded as the number of shares received, not as an increase in investment value and financial income.

Allowances for losses on investments in equity instruments of other entities are made as follows:

- For trading securities investments: The basis for making allowances is the difference between the historical cost of the investments recorded in the accounting books and their market value at the time of making the allowances.
- For investments that are held for a long time (not classified as trading security) and have no significant influence on the company: If the investment in listed shares or the fair value of the investment can be determined reliably, the allowances are based on the market value of shares; if the investment cannot determine their fair value at the time of the statement, the allowances are made based on the financial statements at the time of making allowances of the company.
- For investments held to maturity: Based on recoverability to make provision for doubtful debts as prescribed by law.

2.8. Receivables

Receivables are recorded in detail by term, entity, original currency and other factors according to the company's management.

Provisions for doubtful debts are made from the following items: overdue receivables recorded in sales contracts, loan agreements, contractual commitments, debt and receivables commitments that have not yet due for payment but are difficultly to be recovered. The provisions for doubtful debts are made for each doubtful debt based on the age of overdue debts or expected losses that may occur. In which, the provisions for overdue receivables are based on the principal repayment period according to the original sales contract and receivables that have not yet due for payment but the customers've gone bankrupt or is in the process of dissolution, missing or absconding.

2.9. Inventories

Inventories are reported at historical cost include: purchasing, processing, and other directly attributable costs incurred in bringing the inventories to their present location and condition. After initial recognition, at the time of preparation of the consolidated financial statements, if the net realizable value of inventories is lower than cost, the inventories are recognized at net realizable value.

The method of calculating the value of inventory is determined by the monthly weighted average method. Inventory is accounted for using the periodic inventory system.

Method of determining the value of work in progress at the end of the year: Work in progress is collected for each work that has not been completed or revenue has not been recorded, corresponding to the amount of work in progress at the end of the period.

The allowances for a devaluation of inventories are made for each item of inventories with a historical cost greater than the net realizable value

Liquidity risk

Liquidity risk is the risk that the company faces difficulties in fulfilling its financial obligations due to lack of funds. The company's liquidity risk mainly arises from the fact that financial assets and financial liabilities have different maturity dates.

The payment terms of financial liabilities based on contractual expected payments (on the basis of cash flow of principal) are as follows:

	Less than 1 year	From 1 years to 5	Over 5 years	Total

34. COMPARATIVE FIGURES

Representing figures on the Balance Sheet are taken from audited Consolidated Financial Statements for the fiscal year ended 31 December 2024 by CPA Vietnam Auditing Company Limited. Comparative figures on the Income Statement and Cash Flow Statement are compared with the Consolidated Financial Statements of the same period in 2024 that have been disclosed.

35. EXPLANATION OF INCOME STATEMENT

The net profit after corporate income tax index on the Consolidated Income Statement for Quarter II 2025 was a loss of VND 23 billion, a significant improvement compared to the loss of VND 30.5 billion in the same period last year, due to the following reasons:

- 1. Revenue from sale of goods and rendering of services in Quarter II 2025 reached nearly VND 189 billion, an increase of VND 31 billion, equivalent to an increase of 20% over the same period in 2024. Cost of goods sold and service rendered in Quarter II 2025 reached VND 113 billion, an increase of VND 15 billion compared to Quarter II 2024, equivalent to an increase of 15%; therefore, Gross profit from sale of goods and rendering of services in Quarter II 2025 reached nearly VND 65 billion, an increase of VND 12 billion, equivalent to an increase of 23% over the same period last year.
- 2. Financial income in this period reached VND 2.9 billion, down VND 3.4 billion compared to the same period last year, mainly due to a decrease in interest on bank deposits and lending interest.
- 3. Selling expenses in this period reached VND 27.8 billion, up VND 3.6 billion compared to the same period last year, mainly due to the Company intensified marketing and product promotion activities, and expanded sales channels and hotel room services.
- 4. General and administrative expenses in this period were VND 27.8 billion, a decrease of VND 1.3 billion, equivalent to a decrease of 5% compared to the same period of last year, mainly due to the Company's effective cost control and improved management efficiency.
